Anti ragging affidavit

In India, Ragging is defined as a form of harmful interaction between individuals, especially students, with the intention of insulting/intimidating. This comes very close to bullying or bullying and often involves humiliation and abuse that could leave a person's dignity wounded. This is precisely why Indian law vehemently opposes this evil act with strong anti-ragging laws. It may not always be possible to stop every case of ragging, but educational institutions are capable of doing much to limit it to near zero. This is where the anti-ragging statement comes into place. If educational institutions and other similar bodies enforce rules that order every person studying/working with them to sign an affidavit stating that they will not carry out the work of ragging within the premises of the institution, ragging could be kept under control. How to create an anti-ragging statement? Most institutions, especially those involving students, will have their own Anti Ragging statement. However, they cannot be comprehensive or thorough enough. That is why we recommend and encourage the use of our UGC/AICTE recommended, pre-drafted statement that can simply be filled out as a regular form. Just click on the previously drafted anti-ragging statement, fill out your details and review it thoroughly. If you're sorry about the institution, we'd be happy to take mass orders. We even have a provision to print it on stamp paper and deliver it to an address anywhere in India. What should I include in that? The use of anti-ragging statements is not limited to educational institutions, they can be used anywhere there is a division for younger people. Ideally, a well-drafted anti-ragging statement should include the following Name of the student, depositor, who makes a statement Statement as such that you will not engage in the act of ragging Consequences of violating the oath Statement and oath by parents How to make it legally enforceable and valid? Once you have filled out your details, review the statement, then print a soft copy on the stamp paper. In case you don't want to deal with the hassle of printing it out on stamp paper, we're happy to do it. Once you order, we'll review your document, print it on Govt. recommended value and deliver it to you. After you have a statement printed on stamp paper, swear the same thing in front of an official who has the power to testify to an oath, and that's it. You're done.
